

After lengthy research in several regions of Chile, Bordeaux Wine Grower François Lurton planted his vineyard on virgin terroir, with poor soil and a healthy, balanced climate: the Lolol Valley. The choice of the Lolol Valley proved to be judicious, thanks to the weather conditions and the granite schist terroir. This touched subregion of the famous Colchagua Valley was perfect for implementing biodynamic winemaking methods and making remarkable wine.

HUMO BLANCO Organic/Biodynamic Sauvignon Blanc 2024

Crystal clear color, brilliant with green glint. Intense aromas, with a first nose of green asparagus mixed with tropical fruits like guava and passion fruit. At the palate, the attack is smooth and tasty, with a lot of structure, nice concentration and final with acidity and freshness.

HUMO BLANCO Organic Cabernet Sauvignon 2023

"A youngster, with a vibrant, fruit-filled presence of plumeria and blood orange notes, picking up crisp raspberry and Rainier cherry flavors. Shows lively acidity that drives everything to the finish around fine, spice-filled tannins. While not the typical bold Cabernet Sauvignon, this makes for a very drinkable style. Drink now."

HUMO BLANCO Organic/Biodynamic Pinot Noir 2022

"Lurton likes Pinot from California and has tried to replicate the style in Chile, but finally he harvested early for the 2022 Humo Blanco Edición Limitada Pinot Noir, which fermented with some stems and still achieved 14% alcohol. The wine is not very varietal, and it feels juicy-ripe, fruit-driven, straightforward and easy to drink. Drink Date: 2022 - 2024."

89pts Wine Advocate 04/23

"The 2022 Pinot Noir Humo Blanco Edición Limitada from Lolol, Colchagua Costa, was aged in 1/3 French oak barrels. Ruby-red with a purple sheen. The fruit-forward nose offers notes of strawberry and pomegranate with hints of herbs and bloody aromas. Ripe in the mouth, with alcoholic energy and a smooth texture. The fruity finish lingers at length. Drinking Window: 2023 - 2034."

89pts Vinous 03/23

2023 "The fruit-focused nose reveals aromas of raspberries and cherries. Balanced flavors of toasted oak, thyme and red and dark berries slide through a soft texture. This is a versatile wine that would pair well with a wide range of dishes."
